

OPERATING COMMITTEE TERMS OF REFERENCE AND GUIDANCE

It is the desire of the Association to encourage member firms to be active in activities and initiatives of CADSI and for them to find value in contributing volunteers to Association Committees and working groups of interest to their firm and of benefit to the objectives of the Association.

Committees are one of the most critical and important parts of CADSI's advocacy agenda, which in turn is of utmost importance to its President, Board of Directors. Committees are one of the principal ways in which the industry delivers feedback on policy, performance and our needs to the Government of Canada.

Committees are also important for feedback to the Association on how events, programs and services can be made better for the membership.

In turn, the Chairs of these committees hold a level of responsibility and importance, ensuring that the aggregate voice of the community is brought forward in a consolidated, constructive, and timely manner so that we can affect change in the best interests of the defence community as a whole.
